

I Dont Want to Go

(ages 4 - 6) Its time to go? OH NO! Joey is visiting his grandparents on his own for the very first time. Nervous about being far from home, sleeping in a strange bedroom, eating new foods, and leaving his favorite toys behind, Joey is absolutely positive this will be the worst trip ever. Little does Joey know what fun Grandma and Grandpa have in store for him if he can find the courage to try something new! Joey takes a train ride, visits dinosaurs at the museum, goes fishing in a boat, attends a party where he meets new friends, camps out in the backyard, discovers a secret recipe for spaghetti sauce, and learns just how rewarding new experiences can be. Children will relate to Joeyes nervousness, and how he always imagines the worst the illustrator portrays Joeyes predicted outcome of each event in hilarious, exaggerated thought bubbles. Joey hides his fears through the words I dont want to go, but each new adventure has a positive result. Courage, an increase in self-esteem, and lots of fun are the rewards when he faces and conquers his initial fears.
