

Hurricane Katrina: You Can Survive a Natural Disaster

Aaron Joseph Moore Stovall heard on television about natural disasters killing people in this nation and other countries. At the age of eighteen, Aaron had begun his freshman year at Xavier University of Louisiana. He attended a few days of classes when the strong, most destructive natural disaster in American history, Hurricane Katrina hit New Orleans. The world watched in silence, stunned, as New Orleans was destroyed by the effects of this horrific catastrophe. Now, Aaron was experiencing firsthand the worst hurricane in the history of this countryhis life literally flashed before him. This unbelievable experience gave him a different outlook on life. Aaron Joseph Moore Stovalls book, College Retreat with Hurricane Katrina is a personal journal of his six days trapped in a dorm, and how the power of prayer and faith in Jesus Christ enabled him to survive. This intriguing, compelling, thought-provoking journal is a must read. He hopes it will bring inspiration to everyone. It affirms that prayer and faith in Jesus Christ will bring you through any catastrophe. Nothing is too hard or impossible with God. In Aarons book, You Can Survive A Natural Disaster! he lists 10 strategies that every student attending colleges in regions were hurricanes most frequently occur should read
